PRACTICAL PLANNING TOOLKIT

I - INCOME

Second Income Planner

Find an extra income idea that fits your life.

BUILD YOUR OWN PLAN • 25 MINUTES

What you will walk away with

Choose one extra-income idea worth testing, with a clear target, money limit and time limit.

BEFORE YOU START

Your monthly pay estimate, normal monthly expenses, your weekly free time, and a pen. Rough numbers are fine.

Your 5 steps

01 See your situation

02 Work out the numbers

03 Compare choices

04 Plan 30 days

05 Review your progress

See your situation

Start with your real situation, not someone else's success story.

STEP 1 OF 5 UNDERSTAND

Current take-home income (RM / month)

Money received after deductions

Extra income I hope to make (RM / month)

Start small and be realistic

Hours I can spare each week

After family, rest and my existing job

Money I could afford to spend trying an idea (RM)

Not borrowed emergency money

Your income idea list

What could I do?	What skills do I have?	What might it cost?

REMEMBER

Remember: sales or commissions are not the same as money you keep after costs.

THREE QUESTIONS TO KEEP IN MIND

1. What makes you want extra income right now?
2. How much spare time do you really have each week?
3. What skill, service or experience do people already value?

Work out the numbers

Use money you keep AFTER expenses. For variable income, choose a cautious estimate instead of the best month.

STEP 2 OF 5

DO THE MATHS

A SIMPLE EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE: Earn RM1,000; spend RM220 on travel, tools and fees. You keep RM780. If it takes 28 hours, that is about RM28 per hour.

Now use your own numbers

Expected money coming in (RM)

Expected work costs (RM)

Money left after costs (RM)

Money in minus costs

Hours needed in a month

Money left divided by hours

WHAT YOUR NUMBER TELLS YOU

If the real hourly return is low, the work is unreliable or the upfront cost is high, test a smaller idea first.

A NOTE BEFORE YOU ACT

Do not count promised commissions as guaranteed pay. Check registration rules before doing regulated work.

Compare your options

A good next step should fit your money, time and responsibilities - not only your hopes.

STEP 3 OF 5 EXPLORE

1 Improve current job pay

Ask about new skills, overtime or a raise. Lower startup cost, but may take time.

2 Offer a simple service

Use a skill you already have. Test with one paying customer before buying equipment.

3 Explore a new earning model

Part-time sales or business may fit, but check costs, licensing and unpredictable earnings.

Compare your choices

How fast can I test it?

What money could I lose?

Can I keep doing it?

Before you decide, ask yourself

- [ ] What costs will I pay even with no sales?
- [ ] Is there a contract, registration or training requirement?
- [ ] Can I try this safely without resigning?

Your 30-day action plan

Four small weekly steps are usually easier to keep than one big promise.

STEP 4 OF 5 TAKE ACTION

WEEK 1

Pick one idea

Write down the customer, the problem you solve, and your spending limit.

My step:

WEEK 2

Check the numbers

Ask two people what they would pay and list all likely costs.

My step:

WEEK 3

Run a small test

Make one ethical offer or apply for a genuine opportunity.

My step:

WEEK 4

Review actual results

Record money received, expenses, time and what you learned.

My step:

Make it real

My first action in the next 48 hours:

Date I will check my progress:

Review & take the next step

Come back after 30 days. A useful plan changes when life or the numbers change.

STEP 5 OF 5

KEEP IMPROVING

What I track	My starting point	After 30 days
Extra money kept (RM)
Hours used
Money spent trying it
Next month goal (RM)

Your reflections

What was easier than expected?

What cost more money or time than expected?

Is this idea worth another 30 days?

WHEN IT IS WORTH GETTING HELP

If the income depends on commissions, borrowing, or a large upfront fee, get a clear explanation of costs and risks before committing.

Good questions to bring to a review

- Would earning more solve my main problem, or must I fix spending too?
- How much income uncertainty can my household handle?
