PRACTICAL PLANNING TOOLKIT

Career Transition Planner

Explore a new career without guessing the cost.

BUILD YOUR OWN PLAN • 25 MINUTES

What you will walk away with

Compare a career move with your current job and plan a safe first experiment.

BEFORE YOU START

Current take-home pay, minimum monthly costs, current savings, role ideas and any training requirements.

Your 5 steps

01 See your situation

02 Work out the numbers

03 Compare choices

04 Plan 30 days

05 Review your progress

See your situation

A job change is not only about a bigger headline salary. Look at hours, stability, skills and family costs.

STEP 1 OF 5 UNDERSTAND

Current take-home pay (RM / month)

After deductions

Essential monthly expenses (RM)

What must be paid even between jobs

Money available to support a transition (RM)

Only money you can use safely

My strongest transferable skill

What I can bring to another role

Two paths I want to explore

Role or path	What attracts me?	Skill / proof needed

REMEMBER

Commission-only income may start slowly and vary each month. Ask about costs, lead support and registration requirements.

THREE QUESTIONS TO KEEP IN MIND

1. What is the main reason you want a change?
2. What do you enjoy doing and do well?
3. What would you need to earn to support your household?

Work out the numbers

A financial runway is simply how many months your available money could cover essentials if your pay stopped.

STEP 2 OF 5

DO THE MATHS

A SIMPLE EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE: RM12,600 of available savings / RM4,200 of monthly essentials = 3 months of backup. This is only an estimate.

Now use your own numbers

Available savings for a transition (RM)

Essential spending each month (RM)

Months of backup

Savings divided by monthly essentials

Likely upfront training/travel costs (RM)

Expected starting income (RM / month)

Estimate cautiously

WHAT YOUR NUMBER TELLS YOU

A short runway means it may be safer to learn, interview or test an opportunity while still employed.

A NOTE BEFORE YOU ACT

Do not resign based on one income story. Check written terms, real costs, benefits, licensing, and what happens in a slow month.

Compare your options

A good next step should fit your money, time and responsibilities - not only your hopes.

STEP 3 OF 5 EXPLORE

1 Grow in my current company

Ask about training, promotion or a different role with less disruption.

2 Move to another employer

Compare written pay, benefits, role expectations and career development.

3 Explore variable-income work

Test suitability, registrations, real take-home earnings and cash reserves first.

Compare your choices

Reliable take-home pay?

Skills I need?

Impact on my family?

Before you decide, ask yourself

- [ ] Is pay fixed, variable or both?
- [ ] What benefits, hours and expenses change?
- [ ] Are qualifications or authorisations required?

Your 30-day action plan

Four small weekly steps are usually easier to keep than one big promise.

STEP 4 OF 5

TAKE ACTION

WEEK 1

Choose two realistic paths

List what each pays and the skills it needs.

My step:

WEEK 2

Speak to people in the role

My step:

WEEK 3

Check your runway

Compare savings, family costs and training requirements.

My step:

Apply, interview, take a short course or request a role shadow.

My step:

Make it real

My first action in the next 48 hours:

Date I will check my progress:

Review & take the next step

Come back after 30 days. A useful plan changes when life or the numbers change.

STEP 5 OF 5

KEEP IMPROVING

What I track	Today	In 30 days
Roles researched
People spoken to
Skills gaps identified
Months of backup

Your reflections

Do I want to leave my job, or change what I do in it?

Which opportunity fits both my strengths and my bills?

What evidence do I need before a big decision?

WHEN IT IS WORTH GETTING HELP

A career mentor or adviser can help compare opportunities. For regulated financial roles, independently verify eligibility and registration first.

Good questions to bring to a review

- What would I need to learn before switching?
- What is a realistic first-year income range, including slow months?
