THE R.I.S.E.™ ROADMAP

PRACTICAL PLANNING TOOLKIT

E - EMPIRE

Leadership Systems Planner

Build a team that does not depend on you for everything.

BUILD YOUR OWN PLAN • 25 MINUTES

What you will walk away with

Choose one repeatable team process, give it a clear owner and test it over 30 days.

BEFORE YOU START

Your team list, common weekly work, one problem that keeps repeating, and recent activity numbers if available.

Your 5 steps

01 See your situation

02 Work out the numbers

03 Compare choices

04 Plan 30 days

05 Review your progress

See your situation

Good systems do not mean more paperwork. They mean clear work, useful feedback and less confusion.

STEP 1 OF 5 UNDERSTAND

Number of people in my team

Full- and part-time where relevant

Hours each week I spend on repeat tasks

Best estimate

One task I always handle myself

Even when others could learn it

One team result I want to improve

Service, response time, quality, consistency

List recurring tasks and owners

Task that repeats	Current owner	Could someone learn it?

REMEMBER

Do not delegate confidential financial advice or regulated decisions to someone who is not authorised to perform them.

THREE QUESTIONS TO KEEP IN MIND

1. What breaks down when you are away?
2. What does your team keep asking you to decide?
3. Which one process causes the most stress?

Work out the numbers

Count how many important repeating tasks only you can complete. Use this as a discussion tool, not a performance grade.

STEP 2 OF 5

DO THE MATHS

A SIMPLE EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE: Of 10 routine tasks, the leader alone handles 8. That is 80% leader-owned. Start by teaching one suitable task, not dumping everything at once.

Now use your own numbers

Important repeating team tasks

Tasks only I can currently do

Share only I handle (%)

My tasks divided by all tasks, times 100

Hours I want to free each week

Tasks to train someone on this month

WHAT YOUR NUMBER TELLS YOU

A high percentage shows where to document and train. Some tasks should remain with a qualified leader or licensed person.

A NOTE BEFORE YOU ACT

Do not delegate regulated advice, private customer data or safety-critical decisions without suitable authority and controls.

Compare your options

A good next step should fit your money, time and responsibilities - not only your hopes.

STEP 3 OF 5 EXPLORE

1 Write a one-page process

List the steps, quality check and who to ask when stuck.

2 Train one clear owner

Show the task, let them try, review results and offer support.

3 Review one useful measure

Track an outcome people can influence, not just activity for its own sake.

Compare your choices

Is the owner clear?

Is training realistic?

How do we check quality?

Before you decide, ask yourself

- [ ] What does good work look like?
- [ ] Who decides when an exception happens?
- [ ] How will the person get feedback and help?

Your 30-day action plan

Four small weekly steps are usually easier to keep than one big promise.

STEP 4 OF 5

TAKE ACTION

WEEK 1

Pick a repeat problem

Choose a recurring task that slows the team down.

My step:

WEEK 2

Document the steps

Make a one-page guide with the desired outcome.

My step:

WEEK 3

Train and observe

Let a teammate practise with support and clear limits.

My step:

WEEK 4

Review and improve

Ask what worked, check quality and simplify the process.

My step:

Make it real

My first action in the next 48 hours:

Date I will check my progress:

Review & take the next step

Come back after 30 days. A useful plan changes when life or the numbers change.

STEP 5 OF 5

KEEP IMPROVING

What I track	Today	In 30 days
Leader-only tasks
Hours spent on repeat work
Tasks with a named owner
Team check-in completed?

Your reflections

Which decision can the team make without me now?

What needs clearer training or approval?

What one measure would help, not just pressure, people?

WHEN IT IS WORTH GETTING HELP

A leadership review can help align roles, measures and coaching. Keep regulated work with appropriately qualified people.

Good questions to bring to a review

- Which processes must work even when I am absent?
- How can I train people without losing quality or compliance?
